About People And Things

By C. B. McDowell

Pipe Hard To Find

Mayor L. P. Mullins reports that the city is experiencing great difficulty in finding one and one-quarter inch pipe to replace the rusted out pipe where paving is being done. He is scouring the country for this scarce article and hopes to find enough of it to meet present urgent needs. Mr. Mullins says it is costing the city a great deal of money to lay sewers, water mains, replace defective pipes, etc., but he believes it is a good investment in that it will prevent digging up the paving for years to come. Paving work is progressing rapidly when weather permits, but recent rains have made many of the streets impassable. It is hoped that paving on the important streets can be completed before protracted rains set in.

Roy Bullard In Veteran's Hospital

Mr. Roy Bullard was scratched by a cat at his home in Curtis community about five weeks ago. His arm became infected and grew worse, so about three weeks he was taken to Veterans Hospital in Montgomery where it was found that blood poison had set up.

Farm News

REGISTERED HOGS

Mr. Boutwell and his son in Victoria community say they registered and not just pure-bred hogs for them. He backed up this statement by showing the County Agent a litter of registered hogs. Both litters were farrowed on his farm and both received the same management and feed. The grade shots were two months older than the registered shots yet the registered shots are much heavier than the grades. This means that Mr. Boutwell and his sons can produce cheaper meat with registered hogs. They are developing four nice registered gilts for brood sows.

STAR ROUTE SERVICE To Kinston Starts October First

Happy to advise that second assistant Postmaster General has advised me that new star mail route from Elba to Opp will bring overnight mail service from Kinston to Elba, Enterprise and other points in Coffee County. New service to be effective October first, 1948.

To Give Overnight Service To Kinston And Points West

The following telegram was received by the Clipper this week:

Postmaster Lee English also advised us that the contract has already been let.

The new route will leave Elba daily except Sunday at 6:15 p. m. and arrive at Opp at 7:00 p. m. In Opp it will make connection with another star route from Georgia. Under the old set up it will leave Opp as soon as mail will arrive in Elba some 30 minutes later.

This news will be well received in Elba, Kinston, Opp and Enterprise and the large area of rural territory served by these post offices. Under the old set up it took a piece of mail longer to go from Elba to Kinston than from Elba to Chicago. Postmaster English says under the new arrangement, a letter mailed in Elba in the afternoon will arrive in Mobile the following morning whereas it now takes two days to get to Mobile.

Paying was to have started on this some time ago, but other matters have kept coming up. It is to be a part of a direct route from Brundidge to the Gulf Coast.

The County is expected to participate in the road in some manner, but final details are not yet available. Part of the road money was spent some time ago, however, more recent and complete figures will be needed before the project can be undertaken.

Just when the work will begin is not yet known. It will be given as soon as this information is available.

Therefore, we endorse the great expansion of library facilities for rural people."

The Elba Study Club has adopted the bookmobile as a major project and is putting forth a strong effort to make it a success. There are 10,000 members of the Alabama Federation of Women's clubs, 6,000 of which are in the Sixth District. H. B. Larkins, Coffee County's representative in the Alabama Federation, has been active in his support of the bookmobile project. Over 700 counties out of some 67 in the United States have adopted the bookmobile as a permanent County-wide library service which brings a steady supply of books to every village, town and rural school. Nevertheless, there are still some thirty million people without library service. Increasing interest in rural library service, however, plus experiments in new areas of service and new methods of financing encourage the belief that rural needs can and will be met.

In a regional library system books are carried to the remotest parts of the area from a library headquarters which acts as a main reservoir. Books are distributed from a book automobile or a "library on wheels."

The strategic person in making this a service of books is the regional librarian who travels with the books. He learns the reading needs and the interests of the whole area through contact with individuals, rural groups and organizations, and then uses his specialized knowledge to select books to these needs and interests.

The first meeting of the Club was held on the 13th of September. The club members are planning the third meeting of each month. The first meeting consisted of the social tea and the pledge service for new members.

The program for the year was planned by an appointed committee.

OBSERVE TRAFFIC RULES
SAVE SCHOOL CHILDREN

School bells are ringing again, and the Alabama Highway Patrol urges that everyone—children and adults—put special emphasis on the following rules of traffic safety.

Since August 15, the patrol has recorded two school bus accidents in the state. One resulted in the injuring of a Franklin County child, while a Monroe County adult was injured in the other.

According to the Patrol, the Franklin County accident came about when a motorist passed a school bus while it was unloading. The injured child, age 7, was struck down as he walked across the road after leaving the bus. The auto which hit the child was at the intersection, never at the reported to have been going 40 miles per hour while passing the bus.

Patrol officials urge the following traffic rules:

1. Motorist, give the kids a "brake" by using special caution in residential areas, school zones and in other slow speed areas.

2. Parents, see that your children know the safest route to school, and that they know how to behave safely in traffic.

3. Older boys and girls, watch out for smaller children. Lead them in the "safe way."

4. Younger children, obey the traffic officers and school safety patrols. Keep out of the street except when you cross with the traffic signal, and always cross the auto which hit the child was at the intersection, never at the reported to have been going 40 miles per hour while passing the bus.

Year-Old Girl
Lacks Sensation
Of Pain in Body

Doctor Says It Is Possible
For Her to Break a Leg
Without Knowing It

AKRON, OHIO—One-year-old Beverly Smith will never know the agony of pain, doctors disclosed. Physicians at Children's hospital, said she is one of the few children known to have been born insensible to pain.

The infant never has felt pain and never is likely to, doctors say. She is likely to be a great asset to the world, they said, because she will not cry when she is hurt or angry.

An attractive and mentally bright child, doctors said Beverly will lead a normal life except that she must be closely watched to see that she doesn't get seriously injured. She wouldn't know it.

Not a Disease
A resident physician described her condition as a "developmental defect, not a disease. But it has no remedy."

Not until Beverly became anemic was her "painless" condition discovered. Before that her mother, Mrs. Victoria Smith, took the child to four or five physicians after she had been badly bruised her head.

The bruises were incurred, Mrs. Smith said, when Beverly bumped her head on the floor of her crib. "She didn't cry then either. She just lay there and laughed."

For her anemia, doctors gave her a deep injection of liver. Usually a very painful treatment, Beverly "never even yipped."

A resident physician who had read of the few other similar cases classified her ailment immediately. Doctors said it would be perfectly possible for Beverly to break a leg or suffer an attack of appendicitis "without even knowing it."

One advantage, they point out, is that Beverly is immune to speaking. "I'll get you yet!" he muttered shaking a fist.

THE CAR grinding to a stop woke him up. Hardly before he was out of the chair, the door opened and a man stepped in.

"Good evening," Stan said. "The man looked hard and grim. 'Stand where you are!' The voice sent chills up and down Stan's spine. 'Put up your hands.'"

An automatic snout was pointed where Stan had always considered his heart was. Right now it was pounding in his mouth. His hands shot up with all possible speed. A flashy girl came in and stood beside the man.

"Wise guy," the man sneered. "Yeah, wise guy," the girl said. Stan's eyes stole toward the cash register. There was almost $200 in it.

If Clancy were only here. Stan's ears were straining for the sound of the motorcycle.

"Here," the man said curtly, "hold the gun on him." She took the gun from him.

"Our generation," said she, "is generation of comic strips and movies. That's more than a figure of speech. Why can't we teach children to read, teaching them to read the comics?"

In other words, she said, key instruction to the present—not to the past.

As you know, I have just started in a new business and am trying hard to make a success of it. Recently there have been changes in the personnel and all of our helpers are new. This makes it necessary for me to be in my place of business during the time I would love to be out calling on my friends.

I am in business in Elba because it is my home town and I love the people here, I am vitally interested in their welfare and in the good of the town.

If I am elected as councilman from Ward Three I will, to the best of my ability, cooperate with any person or organization to make Elba a better place to live in, not only for us, but for our children who will take our places in the future.

Sincerely,

C. E. (EDD) KENDRICK

Candidate for City Councilman from Ward Three

Tale
Of A MouseBy
M. J. COLLINS

STAN JACKSON owned the service station beside the pine grove a few miles outside the town. It was a good location and Stan made a fair living. He was a big, piggy-back sort and everyone liked him, but he had one great fault. He loved to talk. Once he got started it was hard to head him off. Mike was his pet subject at that moment, and he claimed if everyone started to catch them systematically, the country would be saved a million every year.

"This was Saturday and he'd been busy all day, and so had the cash register."

"What's going on now?" High-way Patrolman Clancy asked as he stepped in. Stan looked at the corner where he was bent over fixing something. "I'm trying to catch a mouse," he answered, "and having a time of it, too."

"Trying to save a million dollars?" he asked. Stan looked serious. "Listen, Stan," Clancy leaned over. "I've been a lot of service station robberies lately. Don't have too much cash around."

"Oh, they'd never bother with a place like this," Stan's mind wasn't on Clancy's warning. "Now if I could only catch that mouse," Clancy fled.

The next few hours were busy ones for Stan. The farmers, in town for the evening, were his main customers, but now they were gone and he could close.

Hardly had he settled down when there came a "knock."

"Ah," he cried. "I've got you this time!" Jumping to his feet, he rushed back to the corner. He pushed the box aside, but the mouse was gone, and so was the cheese. Stan scratched his head. This mouse had put it over him for almost a week.

"I'll get you yet!" he muttered shaking a fist.

THE CAR grinding to a stop woke him up. Hardly before he was out of the chair, the door opened and a man stepped in.

"Good evening," Stan said. "The man looked hard and grim. 'Stand where you are!' The voice sent chills up and down Stan's spine. 'Put up your hands.'"

An automatic snout was pointed where Stan had always considered his heart was. Right now it was pounding in his mouth. His hands shot up with all possible speed. A flashy girl came in and stood beside the man.

"Wise guy," the man sneered. "Yeah, wise guy," the girl said. Stan's eyes stole toward the cash register. There was almost $200 in it.

If Clancy were only here. Stan's ears were straining for the sound of the motorcycle.

"Here," the man said curtly, "hold the gun on him." She took the gun from him.

"Our generation," said she, "is generation of comic strips and movies. That's more than a figure of speech. Why can't we teach children to read, teaching them to read the comics?"

In other words, she said, key instruction to the present—not to the past.

As you know, I have just started in a new business and am trying hard to make a success of it. Recently there have been changes in the personnel and all of our helpers are new. This makes it necessary for me to be in my place of business during the time I would love to be out calling on my friends.

I am in business in Elba because it is my home town and I love the people here, I am vitally interested in their welfare and in the good of the town.

If I am elected as councilman from Ward Three I will, to the best of my ability, cooperate with any person or organization to make Elba a better place to live in, not only for us, but for our children who will take our places in the future.

Sincerely,

C. E. (EDD) KENDRICK

Car Dealer's Advertisement
For Sucker Sells His Auto

PUEBLO, COLO.—A used car dealer here advertised one of his cars in this fashion.

"Here is a dream. 'A 1937 sedan, freshly painted a Mexican blue with red wheels. The motor is very quiet. It is practically noiseless. It is a matter of fact, the thing won't run.'"

"So, if you're a sucker or a good mechanic you can have it for $800."

Incidentally, Dick Plangstone, the dealer, sold the car.

Scientists Design Radiant Heating Unit Made of Rubber

HARTMAN, N. J.—A home of tomorrow with electrical, radiant heating—no coal, oil or gas furnace—was exhibited here.

This system is practical now where electricity can be obtained cheaply, and in the years to come may provide an answer to the country's dwindling oil and coal resources.

The new heating unit is installed in ceilings of rooms and can not be seen. It sends out heat waves that do not warm the air, but in these panels the chemical nature of the rubber has been reversed, thereby making it conduct electrical current.

The panels are made in sizes of four feet by four, but can be manufactured in other sizes. Installation is simple and far less expensive than installing pipes, radiators or hot air systems.

Slaughter of Dairy Cattle Perils Production of Milk

SYRACUSE, N. Y.—P. Kinney, president of the Eastern Milk Producers Cooperative association, said that continued sale of dairy cattle for beef would result in a milk shortage.

He told delegates at the association's quarterly meeting that less milk was produced this year than during the corresponding period last year.

Announcing that the association would seek a fall price of $5.50 a hundredweight (about 45 quarts) for class 1-A milk, an increase of 44 cents, Kinney said:

"Price to the consumer governing factor as to whether or not we'll have a shortage in the fall."

If the price remains high, he added, farmers will continue to sell dairy cattle.

WE GIVE the same attention to rich or poor, regardless of class or creed.

THE man looked hard and grim. The sight of his vanishing money made Stan see red.

"Don't try it, sap!" the woman said coldly, motioning him back. A pair of small, beady eyes stared out of a hole in the wall. The mouse started to run across the floor. The girl screamed and, dropping the gun, scrambled up on a chair.

Cursing, the man turned. All the fury in Stan's fist crashed into his face. He went crashing into the wall and slumped.

In the excitement the sound of the motorcycle had gone unnoticed. Clancy stepped inside, surveyed the scene and quietly asked, "What goes on?"

Stan sighed with relief. "You're just in time."

"I think so," Clancy said, dryly taking the gun out of the shaking hand. "This might go off and damage someone . . . even you."

After the two had been taken away, Stan served Clancy coffee in the rear. Clancy asked, "How did you get the drop on them?"

"Well," Stan replied, "he handed the gun to the girl. No, wait, he handed it to me. Look at this," he cried, holding up the trap. The mouse was pinned by the tail.

"Ah! Success!" Clancy chuckled. "The mouse, please, my friend."

Stan beamed. "I saved the country $200."

Soil Conservation

By Edwards and Tulos

The Brooklyn community of Coffee County will have a new look this winter. At least a dozen farms will have lupine planted on them for the first time. Most of these farms are owned by veterans who are taking farm training. The farmers already have their seed as they didn't want to get "left out" this year.

Some of these veterans and the acres they will plant are: Tyson Barnes, 28 acres; Harold Phillips, 8 acres; Hubert Barnes, 16 acres; Johnnie McCall, 20 acres; James Bailey, 18 acres and Jim Paul, 40 acres.

These farmers are interested in having and building up their land. Blue Lupine is one of the best crops we know for the job. Tyson Barnes will plant all the land where he digs peanuts and all his cotton land in lupine. Jim Paul will plant all peanut dug land in lupine.

The value of lupine isn't all here. Around Brooklyn either, Monroe Fuller and his boys have been growing lupine for several years. They think so much of it as a cover crop that it is beginning to get around to their neighbors.

A few trial patches of Recue tion and elected U. B. Hudson chairman. C. F. Davis vice-chairman and Hastings Blair secretary. Chairman sang two songs.

1st lesson by five, three songs each: J. C. Tyler, J. W. Donaldson, J. E. Harrison, Edd Kelley and I. A. Wilks Reeces.

2nd lesson by three, 3 songs each: M. J. Allen, A. A. Davis and C. F. Davis.

Rev. M. J. Allen delivered a short sermon which everybody enjoyed very much. The chairman sang No. 369 and the class dismissed one hour for noon.

The class was called to order by the chairman singing No. 159 and 313.

Third lesson by eight, three songs each: C. L. Johnson, L. N. Phillips, J. P. Bradshaw, Willie Brooks, Omega Farris, George Johnson Jr., Kate Farris, Hastings Blair, Reeces.

Class called to order by chairman singing Nos. 75, 321 and 492. Fourth lesson: C. C. Reeves and I. A. Wilks sang No. 146 for and Luther Hickman of Enterprise and Douglas Martin of land, because of illness, and sung Calvary, John B. Johnson of nos. 153 and 385 by request, J. C. Curtis, and B. E. Harris of New Tyler sang nos. 390, 45 and 572.

Brooklyn will give this winter by request, J. E. Harrison sang 539 and 568 by request, Chairman on service, with crimson clover, sung No. 398 and Rev. M. J. Allen and alone for controlling erosion dismissed with prayer.

Hastings Blair, Secretary.

Automobile Trails of Tomorrow

Not Worth Much

The customer at the filling station asked for a change of oil.

"What do you want—in bulk or sealed cans?" the attendant asked.

"What's the difference?"

"No difference in oil," the attendant explained. "The bulk is for people who take my word for the quality and the cans for those who question my word."

"Your word is as good as mine," the customer said thoughtfully. As the attendant started to procure the oil from the bulk supply, the customer spoke up quickly. "I said your word is just as good as mine. Give me that can oil."

DOWLING-ANDERSON
NUPITALS SOLEMNIZED
AT HONOLULU

Miss Jean Anderson, daughter of Mrs. Lillian E. Bourg, of Honolulu, became the bride of Jack Leonard Dowling, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence L. Dowling of New Brockton, Saturday August 14th, at a twilight ceremony in the First Christian Church at Honolulu, with the Rev. W. F. Reid Furgerson, performing the double ring ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle Bernie M. Patterson was a princess style white bride with a long train.

The wedding veil of net and lace was held in place by a seed pearl coronet, matching in design the seed pearl yoke of the wedding gown.

The bride's bouquet was of large white orchids with shower streamers of white butterfly or earrings, the gift of the groom.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was Miss Betty Turner who was given in a floor length lavender marquisette gown and carried a bouquet of yellow gladioli.

The bridesmaids, Miss Patricia Ellen Finnegan and Miss Joyce Teresa Shabon were identical floor length gowns of jonquil yellow satin and lace with matching boleros. Both carried bouquets of deep purple and heather matching the garlands worn in their hair.

The flower girl was little Ethel Mary Finnegan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Finnegan, wearing a floor length lavender marquisette hoop skirt gown, caught up at intervals with rosettes, revealing the ruffled underdress of the same material. She carried a double ring ceremony.

The guests included: Miss Jane Brooks, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Bryant of Selma, and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Monk of Birmingham.

Mr. and Mrs. Amos Clemmons visited in Geneva Sunday.

ALABAMA...
HIGHLIGHTS

When Major William Ketchum returned to his old home on Mobile's Government Street, he found that it had been taken over as headquarters of U. S. General E. R. S. Canby. Legend has it that before Major Ketchum could enter his home he had to obtain a permit. This he did, and immediately the Federal general and the Confederate major took a liking to each other. When time came for dinner to be served, Major Ketchum, without a word, took his place at the head of the table. He gave General Canby the place of honor at his right. From this moment the two men became fast friends.

CLOVER ON BERMUDA FOR MOORE GRAZING

Bermuda grass pastures will furnish up to four months of grazing by the addition of such clovers as crimson, white Dutch, or Mangrove Bar.

This was determined in a study by J. M. School and Ernest Stewart, former agronomist of the Agriculture Experiment Station at Auburn.

Common Bermuda grass has long been a pest on Alabama farms. However, if handled properly, it can become a valuable forage plant. As a forage grass it is well adapted to Alabama and cover a large part of land now in pastures.

Tests conducted over the state by the Experiment Station show that Bermuda grass pastures can be greatly improved by good preparation of the land, inter-seeding of legumes, and good management.

TAKE TIME TO PROTECT
THOSE WINTER GARDENS

A few minutes work and a little dust each week will protect your garden from insects and diseases.

"In South Alabama, green bugs may give more trouble than all other pests combined," says J. C. Ford, API Extension gardener. To control these pests, he recommends that a 20 per cent sabadilla dust be used. If green bugs are not present, the Auburn-approved garden dust is recommended. It will control most diseases, bugs, worms and plant lice.

Ingredients added to enriched corn meal are calcium, iron, thiamin known as vitamin B1, riboflavin, and niacin. When these minerals and vitamins are added to corn meal, a good food is made much better.

When to PLOW PECANS

Pecan orchards which have not been cultivated regularly throughout the growing season should not be plowed in October, or until all danger of new growth is past.

TIMBER PRODUCTION

It has been proved that Alabama's average yield of four-tenths of an acre per year can be increased four times by a well managed forestry program.

WATER FOR HOGS

Hogs need water, but it should be clean. Raise hogs in a lot through which a stream runs or provide clean water in troughs at all times.

On the same day that J. J. Davis and his family moved into the First White House in Montgomery, the Confederacy in Montgomery, May 4, 1861, Letitia Tyler, grand-daughter of ex-president Tyler, raised the first flag of the Confederacy on "Goat Hill" in the capital city.

One of the most outstanding roles of the Civil War which the First White House contains today is the silver chalice from which Generals Lee and "Stonewall" Jackson took Holy Communion just before the latter fell mortally wounded at Chancellorsville.

In the ante-bellum Hinds home at Decatur is a table at which General A. S. Johnson and his general staff planned their strategy for the great Battle of Shiloh.

As the intrepid officer pored over his mass of maps and statistics of troop movements, little did he know that it was in the battle that he was plotting that he would receive the wound that was to take his life.

Mrs. Mirian Fuller entertained for Jab Brock and his guests with a spaghetti supper at her home on Monday night.

Summer flowers attractively arranged were used in the reception rooms.

To The Citizens Of Elba

It has been my honored pleasure to serve you as Mayor since 1934. I regret very much that on account of my private business and the paving problems that we are having that I will not be able to meet each of you in person and thank you for your past cooperation in bringing Elba out of Bankruptcy to a financially sound City. During the past 14 years your City Administration, which means every one connected with the City and yourselves, have banded together and made this possible.

For a number of years we made very little visible progress for the simple reason that a child has to crawl before he can walk. We crawled, we walked, and now we are making progress and it is not inflated. It is sound and it will be permanent. We have not made all the progress we would like to have made because we cannot get all the things we want and need. For instance, we have had bought for eight months enough water mains to put all over Elba, but delivery on this critical item is another thing.

On next Monday you will go to the polls and cast your ballot for one Mayor and five Councilmen to govern your City for the next four years. You have quite an array of good citizens from which to pick your choice. This is probably the most important thing you will do this year, that is, to choose the man for each place that you think will be the best man to lead Elba and handle her financial affairs for another four years. I am confident you will do just this, and whoever you choose will be my choice. Every thing I have in Elba and naturally I am interested in her welfare.

IF FROM YOUR OBSERVATION OF PAST CONDITIONS AND PRESENT CONDITIONS YOU THINK I DESERVE YOUR VOTE AND INFLUENCE I ASSURE YOU THAT IT WILL BE GREATLY APPRECIATED.

For COUNCILMAN - AT - LARGE

I enjoy meeting people and have personally solicited a good many votes. However, I have not been able to take enough time from my business to see everyone. If you are one of the ones I have missed it is because I have not been able to take time to see you.

To The People Of Elba

I have earnestly tried to contact everyone in Elba to solicit their vote in the coming city election, but have failed to see some due to my business and helping with the High School football team, but I do wish to take this opportunity to ask your vote in this election.

I have lived in Elba for a number of years before the war, and after my discharge from the Armed Services I came back to Elba to make my home because of the fact that Elba has always been a real home to me. I own my home and am a partner in my business.

I have always worked on projects through the Elba Lions Club and the American Legion as well as other organizations toward our community betterment programs and assure you that, if elected to the office which I am seeking I will continue to serve the people of Elba in obtaining those things which will help our town grow and prosper. I promise to fill this office to the best of my ability.
